Technical Information

StatTV uses a small StatTV appliance to deliver live stats on TVs in your press box. It can leverage your existing cable TV infrastructure through the optional QAM modulator. The QAM modulator makes StatTV a new channel in your in-house cable system. StatTV can also leverage other signal distribution solutions depending on the existing facility infrastructure.

StatTV Output

Native video output	HDMI or VGA
Cable TV output	QAM 720p HDTV output (w/ QAM modulator option) Supports any addressable RF channel from 2.1 to 135.99. Can deliver HD channel along side your existing analog channels.

Data Integration

Stats Software	StatCrew versions x.xx to x.xx. Other stat software integration is also available.
Supported Scoring Consoles	Daktronics™ All Sport 5000 series Daktronics ProSport series WhiteWay serial controller series Other controllers w/ serial output (scoring consoles may require StatView Clock Server)

Network and Security Features

Internet connection	Hard-wired Ethernet connection w/ DHCP or Static IP address. No in-bound ports are required. No public IP address is required.
Appliance Operating System	Embedded Linux O/S provides stability and high security. No end-user access to the device is required.

About StatView

StatView has over a decade of experience in live stats delivery and is used by some of the largest college programs, bowl games and basketball tournaments every year. StatView counts over 450 NCAA colleges and universities as customers. We know what it's like on game day and our experience and commitment to excellence translates into less stress for our customers.

StatView offers a complete suite of products to help manage game day stats. The suite includes the Stat Management Server for trouble-free stats integration and distribution, StatBooks for on-demand stats delivered to the media and StatTV, delivering live stats in high-definition on TVs in your press box.
